

In regards to the petition by the Consumer Banking Association, to the Federal Communication Commission, in consideration of invalidating important parts of the Wisconsin do not call list law I am firmly against any changes to, or replacement of, Wisconsin's existing statutes.

Common sense dictates that the change in law will allow banks and any subsidiary of that institution to continually harass customers for business.